Improving Children's Lives One Book at a Time

The Book Bus: Fundraising Researcher Volunteer position

The Book Bus aims to improve child literacy rates in Africa, Asia and South America by providing children with books and the inspiration to read them. The Book Bus is currently working to improve literacy rates at a community level in India, Zambia, Malawi and Ecuador. Our library work, book donations and assisted reading programme is helping strengthen the reading culture in schools resulting in a more confident reading population that is better equipped for the future.

We are currently looking to recruit a Fundraising Research volunteer; initially the role is to assist the team with Trust fundraising research; with potential for the role to develop into further projects at a later date. Tasks involve:

- Research of current Book Bus charitable Trusts donors
- Research into prospective new charitable Trust donors
- Research in potential Corporate networks for organisation
- Research current in-house fundraising systems
- Market research of current UK Trust giving trends
- Some drafting of text for potential funding applications

This would be a great opportunity for anyone interested in developing their knowledge of charity fundraising, or a career within a literacy organisation. The role will be home based with meetings via Skype, and would suit someone with some admin experience PC literacy.

The position is to start immediately and we are hoping for a commitment of 1 day a week, interviews for the role will take place....
